Tribute from Andrea Martin

Relation: Neice

My earliest vivid memory of Uncle Ian took place when I was a very young child and visiting the Ross family in the Okanagan. Uncle Ian showed me an in-ground pit that had rattlesnakes in it, and he used long tongs to carefully secure one behind its head to lift it out to show me the snake up close. This was the first time I had seen a rattlesnake, and it was also a moment that left me in awe of my uncle.

Over the years, he continued to be someone I admired. Physical distance between our families meant that we didn't see him often but, when we did, he was always very present, attentive, and interested in talking and knowing us. He was always kind, gentle-natured, relaxed, and gracious. One thing that always stood out was when we were in a conversation, he always radiated a magnificent inner joy; behind his words was, what seemed like, a mysterious smile, as if he had a beautiful secret or was on the verge of laughter.

I admire the various directions his life took to support people in need, such as fostering, working in addictions centers, and youth outreach. I admire that he spoke from his heart, and he lived his faith fully and freely. I admire that he followed his calling and shared his faith and fellowship through mentorship and missionary work.

Uncle Ian touched and comforted the lives of many people. The world is a better place for him being in it. I will miss his love and caring, and I will hold him dear in my heart.
