

REMEMBERING
Madge Merit

September 23, 1934 - April 17, 2017

Madge Merit! What can you say about her? She had an opinion and let you know it and she never shied away from a good discussion.

They definitely broke the mould when they made her! For over 45 years she fought many battles with cancer. But lost this last one.

Underneath that beaten up exterior was a warm and caring soul that would give you not only the shirt off her back she would go find a few more sweaters, shirts and jackets too. If you were lucky enough to be part of her "inner circle" you were often blessed with her peanut butter cookies or even better yet her famous cinnamon buns or homemade bread.

She was a fighter and a trooper and we're going to miss her but take solace in knowing that she and Dad are together once more, planting a garden and tending to the flowers. Enjoy those 4 PM happy hours! May your roses bloom year around! In lieu of flowers and a funeral please give to your local Cancer Foundation.
