Those beginning years were hard years. She spent 25 years working in the Haynes Packing House and then many more years alongside her husband doing the books for their business Rotheisler Equipment. They not only worked together but also square danced, golfed, and curled for many years.

Later in life they did a lot of travelling to other countries as well.

Bridge Player and at one time belonged to three different groups playing each week. Later in life her grandchildren were her greatest joy.
